UNRIVALLED REMEDY. UNRIVALLED REMEDY.

INRIVALLED REMEDY. "94, Commercial Hoad, Peckham, July 12.
"Dear Sir,—I am a poor hand at expressing my feelings, but I should like to thank you. Your loveness have done would's in relieving my terrible could. Since I had the operation of "Tracheotomy" (the same as the late Emperor of Germany, and unlike hun, thank God, I am still thive) performed at St. Enribolomew's Hospital, no one could possibly have lad a more violent cough; it was so bad at times that it quite exhausted me. The macus, which was very copious and hard, has been softened, and I have been able to get rid of it without difficulty.—I am, sir, yours maly, J. HILL.".

MEDICAL NOTE. The above speaks for itself. From strict inquiry it appears that the benefit from using Reating's Cough ozeneres is understated. The operation was a specially every one, and was performed by the specialist, Dr I. T. Butlin, of St. Hartholomew's Hospital. Sinc ha operation the only means of relief is the use of these Lozenges. So successful are they that one affords immediate benefit, although from the nature of the case the threat irritation is intense.

UNRIVALLED TESTIMONY. Under date Sept. 8th, 1894, Mr. Hill again writes: I should long since have been dead, but for your Lozenges -they are worth their weight in gold. I will gladly me and tell anyone what a splendid cough remedy they are. Keating's Cough Lozenges the unrivalled remedy for COUGHS, HOAKSENESS and THROAT TROUBLES are sold in Bottles by all Chemists.

The light is a catadioptric one of the first order, with a revolving tower showing at intervals of 30 seconds a white light, which is visible in the ordinary state of the atmosphere at a distance of twenty-seven miles. Its height from the level of the sua is 95.50 metres and 14.50 metres from the base of the tower. The light has an angle of 250°. The tower, which is painted white, is of a prismatic form with octagonal sections. The point which forms the Cape Engaño terminates with a coral reef and stand two islets 'Dos Hermanos' (Two Brothers), the larger of which (the one more to the N.) is only half-a-mile from the cape. Cape Engaño is the northeasternmost point of the island of Luzon.

THE varn about a new method of defence. originating with comparative barbasians. and the anthenticity of which, according to a paper devoted to science, is vouched for on good authority, is thought to be just a trifle too tall. The story runs that during a great uprising of the Yaqui Indians the attacking general was much amused to see the savages use blankets as a shield against his solders' bullets. Holding up a blanket at both ends, so that the edge just touched the ground, the Indian riflemen marched boldly towards him behind this apparently flimey protection. The General was soon alarmed, however, to find that his bullets did not stop the strange advance, and the moving fort of blankets soon came so close to him and poured in such a deadly fire that he was fain to fly the field in confusion and great loss. The Yaquis had become acquainted with the simple fact that, while a bullet will pass through twenty blankets strained over a frame or laid against a firm surface, it will not penetrate a single one if moistened and hung up so as to swing clear of the ground.

Signor Pietro Mascagni, the composer. who has so rapidly become famous, has a fashion which at one moment thre tened suddenly to cut short his brilliant career. theatro he went with his friends to hear some of the popular singers in that part of the Exhibition called 'Old Vienna.' He was followed, however, and before he reached the place he was going to some 2,000 men and women packed themselves densely round him. All his efforts to get away from them were in vain. and his friends' cries of 'You are killing him were of no avail. His hands were seized and pressed. He was kissed and embraced a dozen times, and the cigar he was smoking was taken out of his mouth and fought for. At last the police interand made way for him to one of the gates Here he got into his carriage under their protection and the wrought iron gates were closed upon his pursuers, who were pressing after him and would no doubt have tried a race with the horses of his facre.

Upon the burning question of costs some very radical reforms are proposed. Some of the most abstruse mysteries of the law are connected with costs. A successful litigant is awarded costs against his onponent on the ground that he ought not to rights. A good lesson (says the Shen Pao) was taught a physician, belonging to that class who pretend to be always busy and purposely delay calling upon their patients, in order to enhance the value of their services. It is the habit of these physicians never to call on their patients, no matter how daagerous the case may be, until repeated summons has been made to them, and until they feel satisfied that the family of the sick person has fully realised their value and importance. Frequently they put off their visit until the last hour, and in many | pradore. required. The people of the patient's family sent for the doctor early in the morning, requesting him to come with expedition. The latter promised to go, but he took his time During the day four messengers were sent to him to haston his advent, but he still lingered. In the meantime, however, the nationt died, and when the physician did come in the evening, he was given a warm aggrieved household set upon him with great fury, and tore his garments to shreds. Had he remained, instead of beating a hasty retreat to a neighbouring drug shop, he would certainly have gone home more dead than alive. There are very many physicians of this kind all over the country who triffs with life, and it is to be honed that the people will not fail to teach them a similar lesson when occasion arises.

THE RAW RECRUIT

David Christie Murray, in his fourth article to St. James's Budget, under the title of 'Things Seen,' gives the following amusing reminiscences :-

decruits were looked on with a jealous eye. with open distayour. While we were at Cahir a couple of young fishermen from the north of Ireland joined. They came in seaseys, and they were for a while objects of colara. derision. I dare say one story is remembered in the regiment still. They were sent into the riding-school before they had had time to get their regimentals. It is no easy business for any unaccustomed person tu mount a saddled horse without though of stirrups, and the young sailors in their hage sen-boots were at a double disadvantage. 'I can't get abourd this here cruit nobow, Captain,' said one of them to old Barron, the riding drill. I shall never torget his expression of contempt and scorn as he saw prepare more, and that the answer came back the young men ignominiously hoisted into the saddle. At the first order to trot the tishermen hung on desperately to saddle and headstall. 'Jack,' said Barron, wrinkling his red nose in disdain, 'look out, or you') be overboard! Not me, says lack; 'not so long as the blooming' riggin' hulds." The sea-going brethren turned out versmart soldiers later on ; but within a month of their arrival there came about the most hopeless specimen I can remember to have seen. His name was Suliivan, though he pronounced it Soolikan, and he was an embodiment of every newkwardness and stupp dity. He was a shambling, flat-footed weak-kneed, round-shouldered youth, and the Fourth asked with amazement how of earth the dooters had been induced to pass him. So far as I remember, he never learned anything. The various drills laboured at him bke gulley-shaves, but never succeeded in teaching him the difference between bort arms' and 'carry arms,' When he' had been diligently instructed in the sword exercise, he asked the sergeant who had instructed him what was the use of it all While I was going through that,' says he, some bloody-minded Russian 'd be chop-The annual review of the river war junks pin' me head off. It was all very well to long as the ide pireled at a walk at the lower end of the school. But then came the order. Go largel' and shortly afterwards the lang drawling command, 'Ir-r-co-o-at!' The the words of command far better than their riders, started at the beginning of the note; and before the call had well ended the brisk impressive 'Halt!' would enap across it like a pintol-shot. Pick up Sullivan, somebody? The luckless man, after more than three mouths' lessons, came to me one morning in triumph and told me with a broad gira, 'I didn't fall off the day. He was recognized from the first as incorrigible, and when he had spent but four mouths in the regiment he disappeared. It was darkly whispered in the barrackrooms that he had been told to go, and that he had been bribed with a £10 note to desert the regiment. I dare not mention names : but I think I could lay my hand on the gallant officer who went to this expense for the credit of the corps.

I suppose the School Boards have done much within the last score of years to minimize the mass of popular ignorance; but in 65 one found here and there ar amazing corner of mental darkness amongs! the rank-und-file of a dandy regiment like the Fourth. There was, a great halking made cloth was stopped for over a week fellow named Gardiner, who was boasting one day that he could carry twice his own weight. The native's bodily health is a subject on which he is very apt to wax elequent, and in the graphic description of which ho frequently makes the most amusing mistakes. For instance, the other day a London, Oct. 14.-To Shanghai: Mr F. G. native friend informed me that his wife was suffering from 'historical fits.' and another told me that he had an attack of colic which had turned into 'decentry,' Yet. another whom I congratulated on the birth | cher, Miss Taylor, Mr and Mrs Lethbridge of a son informed me that it was very delicate and was nothing but 'leather and bone. Becoming cognisant of his slip, he Miss Hankin, Miss Hook, Miss Burroughs. hastened to explain that he had intended to say 'skin,' but 'his tongue had turned round! These are instances of a lansus lingua, but turning to my portfolio I find the following slips of the pen. pain in the 'soldier' forming au excuse for nonattendance is perhaps excusable, but the matter becomes more serious when we find another student unable to come because he has been caught 'in the claws of a beastly fever," Another who has been suffering from the same allment writes to say that he is children, Rev. G. Williams, Miss Carling, better, but 'his tempest (temperature ?) is still very warm.' Yet another, in order to show that there is no deception, gives verbatim the recipe prescribed by medical attendant with all the hieroglyphies of 3. May, Sulph., &c. But the The 4th Royal Irish prided themselves cake is taken by one unhappy young man particularly, and not without reason, on the who is prevented from attending because smart and soldierlike aspect of the regiment. he has got 'stumming egg.' It is to be hoped that he was eventually able to lay it. and a gowky or loutish fellow was received We all know that there is no royal road to beaven and that there are many ways of attaining Paradise, but it is satisfactory to learn that 'Mr G .- has gone to heaven boots, pilot-cloth trousers, and knitted jer- in the night at exactly 2 o'clock a.m. by

To Hongkong: monarchy has come to an end in France. Mr and Mrs Ackroyd. He defines Salic law as 'a law in France | Per Messageries Maritimes steamer Yangne at once promptly replied 'a seven Riehl, Miss Maria t. Rauch. mouths' baby'! Macaulay in his essay on Warren Hastings makes use of the phrase drivelling dotard, but he scarcely intended that the person he thus stigmatises should be understood to have been a person who is very fond of drill.' In the study of English history nothing is more confusing than the different enastments and the aubjects to which they refer. This was evidently felt by the student who explained that the Habeous Corpus Act was a very important Act passed in 1628. It declared that the bread and wine taken at the Lord's Supper is the real blood nd body of Christ; and by other who imagined the Act of Uniform ity to be a law 'that all soldiers should dress slike'l One student, painfully aware of what he may expect, on being asked t give an example of the word but in sontence, sarcastically says: 'Even miser give money in charity, but examiners wil not give one mark, Another youthful apostle of celibacy gives the followin example of a logical conclusion : 'Marriage is a lottery-lotteries are illegal -ergo marriage is illegal.' Possibly our language may be responsible for the following defini tion of a sponging-house. 'In England there are many people who live by sponging on others, so there are houses in which on others. But if some allowance may os mader for the confusion of ideas which led to the last answer, it is impos sible to follow the train of thought which ted another student to define 'funkeyiem' as follows: When printing was introduced in England by Caxton and M Wimble, the flunkeyiem was introducedthat is a kind of machine for printing, Phonetic spelling is all very well in it way, but is apt to be misleading when used for minerals. For instance, wh would understand from the following answer that the date of the union of the two East Iudia Companies was intended? · United East India Company 17 not ait. What he meant was seventeen nought eight (1708). Here is a young gentleman who has a practical rather than a scientific turn of mind. Like Alexander he cuts the Gordian knot without troubling to undo it, for when asked how to !determine whether an electric current is flowing in a Hoihow ... - - wire or not, he replies: When a message Haiphong. 30.02 70 75 2 2 is going along a telegraph wire, if you put Bolinao 29.91 86 72 SE 1 b your ear to the post you will hear the current going along.' An embryo political economist on boing asked to write a note on the Poor Law says; The poor laws in 1601 were passed in Elizabeth's reign they wore that all fires in England were to be put out at o'clock. By this law many were contented and happy because-their houses to re built of wood P The following historical assertions can scarcely be allowed to pass without contradiction :--
